

You have passion, aspirations, and goals, but the one thing you don't have is time. Welcome to the Education Table, a micro podcast designed to answer your questions about inclusive and innovative education in ten minutes or less. I'm your host, Katie Novak, a lifetime educator, author, and mom to four amazing kids. I am on a mission to create more balance for teachers and better outcomes for all students. In every episode, I'll break down important education topics and serve them up in digestible and comprehensible ways by weaving together stories, statistics, and strategies to inspire and drive change. I am so glad you're here. Listen and subscribe wherever you find your podcasts.